

Analysis Proposed New Law

Doubling Present
Two Cent State
Gasoline Tax Issued
By Highway Group

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 17.—(P)—The Missouri Highway Commission threw its weight today into the campaign for Gov. Forrest Smith's four cent gasoline tax law.

The commission, through the governor's office, released an 18-page analysis of the controversial law by its former general counsel, Lue C. Lozier. Lozier resigned last week to become a commissioner of the state supreme court.

The law doubling the present two cent tax is set for a special referendum election on April 4. Legality of the referendum is now before the supreme court.

Lozier made his report while still highway commission attorney. He emphasized (1) that the act will let the commission retain full power over funds and rural road building, with no money going direct to county courts, and (2) that the commission is morally bound to use revenue from one of the extra cents for low type rural roads.

Not up to Legislature

Under Missouri's constitution, the legislature cannot tell the commission how to build roads or spend money. But as part of the four cent tax law, the legislature included a pledge from the commission that revenue from one cent would go for rural roads.

This pledge, Lozier said, "is a moral commitment which no state highway commission would dare ignore, even if it were so inclined."

He repeatedly pointed out that the law leaves everything up to the commission's discretion. It may give counties the right to build low type roads if they show themselves capable of it, but even then the commission would keep a tight rein on the work.

"The act does not vest in the county courts any right whatsoever to receive state funds," he said.

Expect "Strict Requirements"

He predicted future commissions would "impose very strict requirements." In no event, he said, would a county court be allowed to spend rural road money "without the most rigid check, verification, investigation, inspection and order by the commission."

The law calls for a bipartisan advisory committee of four, two of them county judges, to help in the program. But Lozier noted their role would be purely advisory.

He also denied reports the new law might interfere with the system of refunds for farm used gasoline. The refund system is not affected, he said.

He concluded the law "outlines a practical and equitable program for the construction and maintenance of lower type state highways and a program which can be initiated once the necessary funds are made available."

Believe It Is Legal

He expressed the belief the law meets all constitutional requirements.

As a starter, Jack Acuff, commission secretary, said 1,000 copies of the analysis are being run off. They will be distributed on a statewide basis through newspapers, legislators, county officials and anyone else interested.

The governor said his office will aid in the distribution as part of his campaign for the tax increase. He plans to stump the state, also. His kickoff speech was made last week in St. Louis. Friday he has another one scheduled before the Kansas City Optimist club.

Truman Speaks At M.U. in June

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—(P)—President Truman will fly to Missouri in June to speak at the University of Missouri in Columbia and at the 35th Division Reunion in St. Louis.

Mayor Joseph M. Darst of St. Louis announced Mr. Truman's acceptance of the two invitations after a White House call.

He said Mr. Truman will fly to Columbia June 9 to receive an honorary LLD degree then go to St. Louis in the afternoon for a reception and a speech the next day dedicating the Jefferson National Memorial.

The President commanded Battery D, 128th Field Artillery of the 35th Division in the first world war. He regularly attends the division's annual reunions. Last year's was held at Little Rock, Ark.

Receiving GI Insurance Check

Smiles flashed with the camera, as Glen Johnson, a letter carrier, accepts a G.I. insurance dividend check for $203.50 from B. B. Bradley, clerk at the post-office. Johnson was among a few Sedalians who received checks Monday, which was the starting payment of the $2,800,000,000 GI insurance dividend to veterans of World War II. Johnson was one of 500,000 vets to receive checks the first day because the last three figures of his serial number were in the zero bracket, 024. Johnson, who recently was married to the former Pauline Gramlich of Clifton City, said he would use the money toward furnishing his home. The young vet was in the army approximately 35 months. He has been employed at the Sedalia post office, as a letter carrier for the past 17 months. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson reside at 1503 South Quincy avenue. (Photo by Padgett).

Stop Signs at Two Schools

Council Rezones
Property To Permit
A Drive-In Cafe

The City Council, meeting in regular session Monday night, Mayor Julian H. Bagby presiding, transacted routine business.

Ordinances were passed to place school stop signs at Sacred Heart school, Third street and Vermont avenue and St. Patrick's school, Fourth street and Massachusetts.

Property between Tenth street and Eleventh street, on Limit avenue, was rezoned for commercial property at the request of Pete Drenas. Drenas had asked rezoning of the property, which is east of property already zoned, in order to build a drive-in cafe and place the building in the center. It was turned down by the zoning board because of a large number of names on a petition remonstrating. The matter was turned over to the Council. Monday night it was shown, in writing, a number of persons had removed their names from the remonstrance, and the request was granted.

Because Burns & McDonnell contractors, had not completed an analysis of the eleven bids submitted by contractors, on storm sewer N 1, the matter was held over and no contract was awarded.

Virgil Carson, first ward alderman, was given authority for the street and alley department to buy a power saw to help cut up the trees that were broken down during the recent ice storm.

Mrs. Rose Mothersbaugh was granted a renewal of a beer license to sell 3.2 beer, at the Nu-Way cafe, 918 South Limit avenue.

Elmer Sumners, second ward alderman, presented a petition for establishing a sewer district in the area from Engineer to Emmet on Chestnut and Boonville.

Diesel Locomotive Ran Wild; Two-Man Train Crew Prayed

MILWAUKEE, Jan. 17.—(P)—A diesel locomotive ran wild for 18 miles yesterday while its two-man crew called on the Lord to keep the truck clear.

"All our controls were useless," Engineer William Jordan, 69, declared. "I threw out messages saying 'give me a clear track. I have no way of stopping.' Whether a dispatcher got the track clear or the Lord did, I don't know. I guess it was between the two of them."

The controls and braking system of the Milwaukee road's Olympian were completely smashed when it demolished a truck at Duplainville, 17 miles west of here. The truck driver had leaped clear. But the engine broke free of the rest of the train and continued in headlong flight. Carried forward by a slight downhill grade, it roared through the line's busy yards here and the Union Station before coming to a halt a mile past the station.

Actress to Let Lord Lead Her

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 17.—(P)—"The glamor and money of Hollywood are unimportant," says 21-year-old Colleen Townsend, who is giving up the films "to devote my life in serving Christ the best way I can."

Miss Townsend, starring with Dan Dailey in a forthcoming picture, declared: "Giving up a Hollywood career may seem like nonsense to some people. I had thought that perhaps I could serve Christ through motion pictures. But I have decided that I can serve him better if I give all my time to him."

A member of the Hollywood Presbyterian church, Miss Townsend said she felt it unfair to sign her studio contract another year because she plans to go to theological school. Her contract expires next month.

Colleen doesn't know what she will do when she finishes school. "I will just let the Lord lead me. It may be that I will go into missionary work, or Christian education, or that I will just try to be a good Christian wife."

Miss Townsend was one of the movie stars who appeared in person in Sedalia at the premier of Scudda Hoo, Scudda Hay, at the Fox theatre March 11, 1947.

Renamed on Board

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 17.—(P)—H. Bryon Masterson, Kennett Democrat and president of the Lincoln University board of curators, was reappointed to the board today by Gov. Forrest Smith. He is superintendent of schools at Kennett.

Also reappointed to the negro university board for a six-year term was Mrs. Olive J. Decatur, Republican, a Springfield school teacher.

David Trusty, Kansas City Republican, was appointed to succeed Canby G. Lord of Kansas City, whose term expired.

Gustav Krupp 'Big Bertha'. Builder Dead

Supported The Rise Of Hitler; Escaped
Nuernberg Trials

SALZBURG, Austria, Jan. 17.—(P)—Gustav Krupp, the German armaments king who built "Big Bertha" in World War I and even more deadly guns for Hitler in World War II, is dead.

The 79-year-old head of one of the world's most tremendous arms industries died at his family estate here yesterday. His full name was Gustav Krupp von Bohlen and Halbach.

Partially Paralyzed

The aged industrialist had been partially paralyzed since the war and escaped trial as a Nazi war criminal because he was too ailing and senile. Allied doctors, at the time the Nuernberg trials commenced in 1945, said Krupp was suffering from softening of the brain.

His wife, Bertha, after whom the mammoth long-range "Big Bertha" cannon which bombarded Paris in World War I was named, was said to have remained at his side during his illness.

He died in small cottage on the grounds of his huge estate, Schloss Blumebach, the rest of which is now a recreation center for American occupation troops in Austria.

Funeral services are to be conducted Thursday in Salzburg.

Born Gustav Halbach in the Hague, Holland, he married Bertha Krupp when he was 36 and was granted the right to assume the name of Krupp von Bohlen and Halbach by Kaiser Wilhelm II, who attended the wedding. Bertha was then heiress to the vast Krupp interests and was one of the wealthiest women in the world.

Amassed a Fortune

Thus, the son of an American-born German diplomat married into and became the successful head of a network of holdings which at their peak were estimated to be worth from $200,000,000 to $1,000,000,000.

Both his father and mother were born in Philadelphia, Pa. His mother's father, Henry Bohlen, was a northern general in the Civil War and was killed in the battle of the Rappahannock. Gustav began as a German diplomat, serving in the German embassy in Washington. He was transferred to Rome where he met the woman he was to marry less than a year later.

Once called the "Prince Consort of the Kingdom of Krupp," Gustav steered the company which armed German militarists for two world wars. At one time it was the biggest armament plant in the world, employing about 180,000 workers.

He supported the rise of Adolf Hitler and in 1940 on his 70th birthday was awarded the gold Nazi honor badge by Hitler. He became president of the German council for business and industry. But he fell out with the Nazi leaders in 1944 and he was arrested by them for making defeatist statements.

Nevertheless, the arms king was indicted as a war criminal in 1945 after the war machine he helped build was smashed and most of his huge plants at Essen had been bombed to rubble. Although Gustav never appeared for trial, his son Alfred was sentenced by an Allied tribunal to 12 years in prison on charges of using slave labor and plundering property in countries snatched up by the Nazis.

Krupp had run into trouble after World War I, also. The treaty of Versailles ordered the destruction of $25,000,000 worth of his company's war material. Then when the French occupied the Ruhr in 1923, Gustav and several of his directors were imprisoned for six months for "passive resistance" to the occupation.

Since the end of World War II most of his war-making plants that had not been destroyed have been dismantled.

U.S.S. Missouri Runs Aground

NORFOLK, Va., Jan. 17.—(P)—The battleship Missouri ran aground in Chesapeake Bay 1 1/2 miles East Northeast of Old Point Comfort today.

Naval spokesmen had no explanation for the accident. The 45,000-ton Missouri grounded on the edge of the channel near Thimble Shoal light. She was outbound for Guantanamo, Cuba, for routine operations.

The Missouri, on whose deck the formal Japanese surrender took place, is the only United States battleship in active service.

Asked For Bids

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 17.—(P)—The state highway commission has asked for bids Feb. 3 on an estimated $2,000,000 in highway improvements.

The commission said today the improvements include four projects on the major system, 389 miles of oil surfacing under the program scheduled for this year and about 50 miles of construction of the farm-to-market system.

Authority to St. Louis For Parking Lots

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 17.—(P)—St. Louis may set up municipal parking lots under a bill signed today by Gov. Forrest Smith.

The bill was sponsored by the city administration and by downtown merchants as a solution to the traffic congestion. Parking lot owners and garages opposed it bitterly in a hearing before the governor last week.

The measure, effective March 9, will allow the city to buy or condemn land for off-street parking facilities. They may be run by the city or leased.

Most other Missouri cities already have such authority.

Important Events In World News

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—(P)—President Truman today disclosed administration plans to get a vote on civil rights legislation "if it takes all summer."

At the same time he stepped personally into the fight against a proposed change in House rules designed to block consideration of the civil rights program. He said he was doing everything in his power to beat the resolution, proposed by the House Rules committee.

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 17.—(P)—The coal strike which has idled 79,000 miners in six states cut into steel production and threatened a power shortage in Pittsburgh.

The Crucible Steel Company of America said its plant at nearby Midland, Pa., is cutting operations 25 per cent.

At almost the same time, the Duquesne Light Company warned all major industries in the greater Pittsburgh area to prepare to close their plants by Friday night if rationing of electric power becomes necessary.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—(P)—President Truman today rejected an appeal by Senator Brewster (R-Me) to invoke the Taft-Hartley act against John L. Lewis in an attempt to settle the coal dispute.

Emerging from Mr. Truman's office, Brewster told newsmen the President said he feels "the time has not yet arrived" to use the national emergency provisions of the law.

Under the emergency provisions of the act, the President could seek a court injunction to restore full production in the coal mines.

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—(P)—The New York Times says President Truman is being urged strongly by administration officials to make another attempt to reach an atomic agreement with Russia before he decides whether to produce a hydrogen atomic bomb.

The hydrogen atomic bomb is estimated to be 1,000 times as deadly as the original atomic bomb.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—(P)—The Truman administration today asked Congress to expand the social security program to cover practically all employed persons—a broader extension than the House voted last year.

It also asked that benefits be increased more than the House bill provides.

BEIRUT, Lebanon, Jan. 17.—(P)—Some 5,000 Communist demonstrators marched through streets of the city of Tripoli today shouting anti-American slogans. They finally were dispersed by police.

Henry J. Allen, Former Kansas Governor Dead

Decoration From British Climaxed
His Public Career

WICHITA, Kas., Jan. 17.—(P)—Henry J. Allen, 81, former United States Senator and former governor of Kansas, died shortly after 6 a. m. today at his home here.

He had been ill for several weeks, critically ill the last 10 days.

A leading party orator at the height of his political career, Allen had been less active the last 20 years.

A newspaper editor and publisher in Kansas for half a century, he still was chairman of the board of the Wichita Beacon at the time of his death.

He died at his home in the hillcrest apartments here.

Survivors are the widow: A daughter, Mrs. Julius Holmes, wife of the counselor to U. S. Ambassador Lewis Douglas in London; and three grandchildren. Mrs. Allen and Mrs. Holmes were at Allen's side at his death.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed. A decoration from His Majesty's British government climaxed Allen's long public career.

But the honor, shared with Mrs. Allen who also received the King's medal for "service in the cause of freedom," was not for the things for which his neighbors best knew him—a fighting career in Republican politics and long prominence as a newspaper editor and publisher.

It was recognition instead of leadership and service to post-war Britain—and specifically to the children who survived the bombings and deprivations of a second world conflict.

Both were leaders in "bundles for Britain" and in work of the "save the children foundation" with its program of nurseries and shelters for British youngsters.

Service as a Red Cross worker in France in world war I—with another noted Kansas newspaperman, the late William Allen White of Emporia—had foreshadowed this humanitarian work by Allen.

Missourians In Washington

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—(P)—A delegation of civil rights advocates from Missouri called on some of the state's congressmen today, urging support of fair employment practices legislation.

The delegation also urged keeping of present house rules on clearing legislation for action. A majority of the rules committee is again seeking power, held prior to last year, to bottle up bills.

Rep. Bolling (D-Mo) said he held the group of about 15 persons that he favors the FEPC bill.

Rep. Sullivan (D-Mo) said he has supported the proposals in the past.

Rep. Kerst (D-Mo) said he informed them he would study the legislation. As far as present House rules are concerned, he said, he believes they are operating "pretty successfully."

The group also called upon Senators Kem and Donnell, Republicans. Kem told a reporter he had no comment on the visit while Donnell could not be reached for a statement.

Alpert Withdraws As County Candidate

Paul Alpert, 720 West Third street, who recently filed as a candidate for the nomination for county recorder, subject to the Democratic primary election, today withdrew his name from the race.

Alpert, now city collector, plans to seek re-election to succeed himself.

He said that southwestern power administration likely would have an option on the line if it is constructed.

The proposed line would be about 250 miles long. Under proposed plans it would go through these areas: Springfield, Bolivar, Eldorado Springs, Osceola, Clinton and Warrensburg.

State House Members For Power Lines

Rep. Christopher Says There is Shortage on Farms

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—(P)—The Missouri congressional delegation has asked the Rural Electrification Administration to approve building of power transmission lines from Bull Shoals and Norfolk dams through southwest Missouri.

Rep. Christopher (D-Mo) said today the 12 Missouri House members "are all for" the proposal.

He said he and Reps. Moulder, Carnahan, Magee and Sullivan, all Democrats, discussed the matter with Claude Wickard, rural electrification administrator, late last week and are now awaiting a decision from him. Christopher said Wickard made no commitment but said he would study the proposal.

The project would be designed to furnish power to REA cooperatives when the Bull Shoals hydro-electric project begins generating power, possibly in 1952. Bull Shoals is in Arkansas.

Christopher to Push It
"I am going to push everyone who has anything to do with it," Christopher told a reporter.

"There is a power shortage in my district for cooperatives."

Christopher said that only about 56 per cent of the farms in his area are electrified and they cannot receive all the power they should get.

Cost of the power to REA users would be much cheaper if the proposed line were built, he added.

He said that southwestern power administration likely would have an option on the line if it is constructed.

The proposed line would be about 250 miles long. Under proposed plans it would go through these areas: Springfield, Bolivar, Eldorado Springs, Osceola, Clinton and Warrensburg.

Midwest Flood Concern

Evacuating Persons In Floodway Near
New Madrid; Wabash
And Ohio Rising

CHARLESTON, Mo., Jan. 17.—(P)—With conditions along the flooded Mississippi and Ohio rivers paralleling those of 1937—one of the worst flood years on record—evacuation of all persons living in the extreme north end of the Birds Point-New Madrid floodway was being conducted today by the United States Army Engineers and the American Red Cross.

Scores of persons who live in that section, on which the government owns flowage rights, have already moved their personal property to higher ground and are now leaving their homes as indications increase that the floodway may be opened to relieve pressure on other levees.

The Red Cross opened headquarters here yesterday and today was rapidly whipping the emergency setup into shape to take care of those emerging from the basin who have no where to go. Charles Burkett of the St. Louis office; Red Cross, is directing the work.

Russia Plots Attack on Yugoslavia; Acheson Takes Firm Stand Against Franco Spain

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON.—A secret huddle of Russian and Hungarian generals plotting an attack on Yugoslavia is the inside reason for the State Department's sudden offer to aid Yugoslavia, if she is threatened.

American intelligence agents in Vienna and Belgrade picked up the alarming report of the Russian military conference from the anti-Communist Hungarian underground.

Stalin attached such importance to the conference, according to this report, that he sent both his No. 1 aide, Georgi Malenkov, and Marshal Constantin Rokossovski, who is organizing the satellite defenses in Eastern Europe.

Chief decision reached at the conference, according to the underground, was to build bases in the Tatra mountains of Hungary for firing rockets into Yugoslavia.

A few days after this report was received, U.S. Ambassador George V. Allen told reporters in Belgrade that Washington is ready to help Yugoslavia "preserve her independence and sovereignty."

So far, the iron-nerved Tito has taken these reports coolly. He told American officials he regards the rumors of imminent attack as part of Russia's "war of nerves" on him, and predicts large-scale "guerrilla" warfare against Yugoslavia this year, using the hard-bitten Communist troops who fought in the Greek mountains. The fighting will be billed by Soviet propaganda as an "uprising" of Yugoslavs.

Tito is a master at guerrilla warfare himself and has established a defense line in the mountains.

U.S. Policy on Franco

France Spain received almost as much attention as the burning question of what to do about Formosa when Secretary of State Dean Acheson was closeted for six action-packed hours with the House Foreign Affairs committee last week.

The meeting was so secret that Chairman John R. Cooper of West Virginia banished his official reporter, so that no written record would be made of the proceedings. However, Acheson's arguments on Formosa were similar to those he gave the Senate the day before, though his delineation of Spanish policy was so complete that it should have been presented to the American people.

Acheson left no doubts either about the State Department's opposition to the Franco dictatorship. There never can be a real understanding between the United States and Spain while Franco stays in power, he said, and it is time the Spanish people were waking up to the fact.

As far as he was concerned, Acheson said, we should continue to withhold full recognition of Spain (we partly recognize her now through a charge d'affaires) until Franco is turned out. Acheson frequently referred to the Spanish dictator as "undependable" and irreconcilable in his contempt for democracy.

Franco Hinders Trade

The Secretary of State added, however, that if the United Nations ever rescinded its 1946 resolution—which led most member nations to recall their ambassadors to the Franco government—the United States could hardly refuse to re-establish an embassy in Madrid.

"But it is not our intention to initiate such action," reported Acheson. "To do so would imply approval of the Franco government. On the other hand, I think recognition would come quickly if there was a change of government."

He hastened to add that he meant no criticism of the Spanish people, of whom he had the highest regard, but only if the government leaders who were preventing them from sharing in the progress of European democracies. Spain probably would be getting Marshall plan aid right now, but for Franco, Acheson pointed out.

He also explained that the European Cooperation Administration had found it virtually impossible to do business with Franco because of the restrictions he placed on American aid and his refusal to abide by ECA regulations.

For instance, Acheson pointed out, Spain limits foreign investment in industrial plants to 25 per cent and prohibits altogether any foreign participation in plant management. Also, Franco freezes profits so as to virtually prohibit reinvestment in plant expansion.

Murder on Formosa

During his remarks on Formosa, Acheson was asked by Representative Walter Judd of Minnesota, a vigorous advocate of aiding Chiang Kai-shek, if our "desertion" of Chiang had not led many Chinese to join the Communist forces.

"I think not," replied Acheson. "I think the Generalissimo lost out because he was strictly a military leader who failed to grasp, or had not the ability to put into effect, the social reforms that were needed to raise the shocking living standards in China."

This and the exploitation of China by Chiang and his crooked war lords left the door wide open for Communist agitators, he said, adding that the Formosan people have also been victimized by Chiang and his henchmen.

Numerous Formosan natives who rebelled against Chiang's mistreatment have been executed, while still others of the upper classes, including doctors and lawyers, have been put to death for the crime of owning property," Acheson informed the shocked committee.

Senator Cain Gets Scraped

Gravel-voiced Senator Harry Cain of Washington State would like to keep quiet his meeting with a buzz saw. For he left the encounter with his ego scraped.

It all happened in the labor temple in Pasco, Wash., before local A. F. of L. leaders. Cain had asked for the chance to address them and correct some "misconceptions" about his labor record.

In fine form before the local boys, Cain said soothingly the Taft-Hartley law really was "for the benefit of the workers."

"I was always willing to support amendments to improve the law," he bellowed on, "but Bill Green and other labor leaders opposed all amendments."

Sitting out in the audience looking sourly at Cain as the president of the A. F. of L. building trades department, Richard Gray, who just happened to be in town. When the Senator paused for breath, Gray went after him.

"That is false," rebutted Gray. "Bill Green and other union heads agreed to accept many amendments in the public interest, and you know it."

"Senator, you were in Washington, as I was," continued Gray, "and you know portions of the Taft-Hartley law were written by attorneys for the National Association of Manufacturers."

Harry Cain blinked.

"I don't know anything of the kind," he replied, but the fire had left his voice.

Gray continued to lecture him until the Senator fled from the hall.

Whatever the Result, British Election Will be a Contest

By Bruce Bissat

Britain's five-year experiment in socialism faces its first test Feb. 23. The United States and the rest of the world will be watching keenly the outcome of the general election set for that date.

The Labor Party was catapulted into power on July 5, 1945, by a 200-seat margin in the House of Commons. With that sweeping mandate, it proceeded to nationalize the coal industry, electric utilities, the railroads, most civil aviation and some truck lines. It laid the ground for government ownership of the steel business. The controversial national health service was created.

Whichever way the Feb. 23 election goes, wild claims and counter-claims as to its meaning are sure to be flung about. So it is well to be clear what really will be at issue.

The Labor Party proposes to continue socializing Britain by extending government control to the cement, sugar and meat distribution industries and possibly others.

Under Winston Churchill's leadership, the Conservative Party does not propose to restore to private ownership any industry now run by government. Nor does it plan to toss out the health and other social services which in this country would be called "welfare state" measures. The Conservatives actually promise more such services.

On the other hand, they do intend to scrap nationalization of steel (set to take effect Jan. 1, 1951) and to bar any further socializing of industry. And they pledge lower taxes and government expenditures.

So the question is not maintenance of the welfare state, nor of such socialism as already exists. The issue in this voting test will be whether or not to EXTEND socialism.

Predicting the winner would be hazardous. Since capturing 393 of 640 House seats in 1945, Labor has won all 35 of the special elections held to fill vacancies. That would suggest its chances of staying in power another five years are good.

As compared with 1945 majorities, however, Labor's winning margins in these special elections have declined. Some British newspapers consider the drop sufficient to overturn the party if the same results are projected nationwide in the general election.

The Conservatives find further encouragement in the sharp swing away from Labor in last year's local elections and the recent public opinion polls showing a loss of popularity for the Labor regime.

But no one can be sure what these signs really portend. A switch of just five per cent of the vote to the Conservative side could put that party back in power by a comfortable parliamentary margin. But Labor could see its advantage cut by two or perhaps three per cent without losing the reins. It's a contest.

Walking Won't do it

Just about a year ago Jacob Malik, the Russian UN representative, was engaged in gentle whispering with Philip Jessup of the United States over plans to end the Berlin blockade. As the agreement was being worked out, Malik overflowed with charm and good will.

But this is another year. Malik is once more stern of countenance. For charm to the Russians is a device of diplomacy, of political intrigue. You might almost say it's a weapon. To be used, of course, at the strategic moment.

This time Malik has resorted to other tactics to accomplish his country's objectives. He has indulged in what appears to be the favorite form of athletics among Russian leaders: a slow walk, with firm stride, out of some international gathering or other.

Malik's spurt of winter exercise is in protest against the continued presence of the Chinese Nationalist delegate as a member of the UN Security Council.

With Britain and many others now recognizing Communist China, the status of the Nationalist delegate is a real problem. But it won't be solved by virtuoso performances like Malik's.

Heb. 1:9, 11, 13; Prov. 29:6; 28:16

THE LAWS OF THE KINGDOM ARE SELF-ACTING

The fact of the Kingdom of God within us is so important that it must be pursued. These laws which are written in us are self-acting. The action and the result are one. The result is something imposed by God from without. It is something inherent. Sin and its punishment are one and the same thing. Sin literally is "missing the mark," the thing for which we are inwardly made; and to miss the mark is, by that very act, to sin against oneself.

That fact has fooled this age. We have been taught that God will punish us for our sins in some extraneous way. But since no thunderclap of punishment followed our sins we began to think that nothing had happened. A little girl put it this way: "We don't have grace at our table, or pray in any way, but nothing has happened yet." "No, my child, nothing outwardly, but the inner deterioration, the decay that has set in as God has been shut out—that is the punishment." "I preach just as well now as I did before I committed adultery," said a puzzled minister. Perhaps so, but the inner chaos and conflict, the lack of self-respect, the deterioration of character—that was the punishment.

"A grasping nature is its own undoing," says Proverbs 15:27 (Moffatt)—the punishment is inherent in the attitude. Even in ancient times this was seen: "As the old proverb runs, 'Evil men bring evil on themselves.'" (I Samuel 24:13, Moffatt.) The evil they brought on themselves was the evil itself. The Old Testament speaks of the forbidden wedge of gold, symbol of Achan's greed, as that "doomed thing among you." Evil is doomed, not because God pronounces judgment on it, but because of its own nature; it has the seeds of decay in it.

When you do right that act is written in the Book of Life. It has the seeds of permanence in it. When you do wrong that act is written in the Book of Death. It has the seeds of its own ruin and death in itself.

O my God, I begin to see. This moral universe begins to close in on me. I must come to terms with it. Or is it an it? Is it a Thou? Art Thou in these very laws? And when I come to terms with them, do I come to terms with Thee? I want Thee, for I am not a subject asking for a law, but a son asking for a father. Help me. Amen.

The first question in today's group has been coming up again and again for many years. As indicated by the inquirer, it is kept alive by commercial interests.

Q—A certain party is holding demonstrations of stainless steel utensils in and around this community. He gives a health talk with the demonstrations claiming that if we use aluminum cooking ware we are slowly poisoning our families? Is this true?

F. W. H.

A.—This is certainly not true. There have been careful and extensive studies made of the possibility of poisoning from aluminum cooking utensils and it has been concluded that there is no harm whatsoever from this source. So far as I know, there has never been a single proved case of poisoning from aluminum cooking ware.

Q—Is there any way to dissolve a small kidney stone?

J. G. M.

A.—Probably not. A few years ago there were some studies made with a solution which could be injected into the upper regions of the urinary tract which seemed to offer some hope of dissolving kidney stones. This has not stood up very well, however, and is not used much.

Q—My little seven-year-old girl has pus on her kidneys. Where else besides the tonsils and teeth could the infection come from?

J. E.

A.—Pus in the urine means that there is infection somewhere in the urinary tract between the kidneys and the external opening. The problem is to find the location of the infection and identify the germ responsible. There are several treatments including streptomycin (a relative of penicillin) which usually can be used to cure such infections. Often the original source does not lie in the teeth or tonsils.

Q—Is there any connection between dandruff and the excessive falling out of hair? Is dandruff caused by a fungus?

A.—There is a connection between dandruff and excessive falling of the hair. There is no doubt that many people with dandruff have a tendency to lose hair more rapidly than others do. The cause

SOCIOLOGISTS have long been attempting to fix the exact moment when the honeymoon ends and the basic marriage begins. Anything from the first quarrel to the first unkind farewell have been offered as precision points, but from personal experience, I would like to suggest the first baby. From the very start of its expected arrival, nature, with the finesse of a Forty-Second Street subway platform guard during rush hours, has an uncanny, unerring way of turning a nice, romantic couple into a pair of serviceable parents.

Our own metamorphosis began soon after my illness. The few weeks immediately following my recovery were the last, blissfully quiet days John and I were ever again to know. At first, of course, my mother was determined upon sending me off to convalesce in some isolated countryside.

"But I want to stay home," I insisted loudly, realizing, as she muttered about my "pigheadedness," that the true test of stubbornness can only be administered by an equally stubborn individual.

"Look," I pleaded, trying to make it sound like a geometric theorem: "I promise to do nothing but eat, sleep, and rest. Freda has agreed to look after everything until I'm fully recovered. Won't that do it? That way, I won't have to leave John alone either."

"Nonsense!" said my mother, making my proposition seem as ridiculous as if I had suggested sending me West to a Franciscan monastery. "People have to go away to recuperate. As for leaving John, lots of couples do that sort of thing. In fact the modern advisers all encourage husbands and wives to get away from each other for some part of the year, vacationing or otherwise."

JOHN, who was sitting near by, smiled, and I started to laugh. That decrepit discussion about separate holidays, for young couples, was like most of the marital counselor bosh.

"If it's so bad that they need a rest from each other in the first place," John would say, "why then time off alone will only convince them how much happier they are apart; and if it's not bad at all, and they'll only miss each other, then certainly the senseless separation is a meaningless form of abstinence."

"That's right," I would agree. "Rules in marriage are quite absurd. Maybe you can repulster an old sofa from a set of printed directions, but in marriage, it's more than what you do, it's how you feel. Emotions don't follow blueprints."

Now, for my mother's sake, I tried to exclaim how John and I felt, but it was like talking sign language to a blind porcupine.

"Never mind," was her final response. "I understand completely. You mean to stay home. Very well, I won't say another word. I'm not one to interfere."

Despite her forebodings, however, the next two weeks were like the softened, silvered sweetness in the winter air before a heavy snow. I lounged comfortably, ate prodigiously, and slept with the soundness of a hypnotized subject in suspended animation. Whenever John could spare the time, we drove to the park and walked along the deserted trails, basking in the cold sunlight, and talking endlessly like a pair of repatriated Frenchmen.

"I feel wonderful," I told Freda one day, as I sat munching a celery stalk while she cooked dinner. "I am not only the laziest thing in creation, but I have the solid approval of the whole world in pursuing this course."

"You might as well make the most of it," said Freda cheerfully. "Another few days, and you'll be back at this," she pointed to the chicken in the pan, "and school, and everything. And after that, you'll probably start tying yourself down with a family, and that's for keeps."

"A family!" I repeated to John that night, making it sound as if she had advocated our joining a nudist colony. "I never even thought of that."

"Neither did I," he confessed. "And so we started to think."

• • • • •

WE treated the idea like a proposed new hatrack for the guest closet. To have or not to have, how much, when, why, and how? With the filibustering art of an opposition party debate, we employed full parliamentary procedure in arriving at our foregone conclusion. John knew all the easy ones, and I was just his "feed man," like Jack Benny's Rochester: Did we want children? Of course! Some time. Even I knew the line about the patter of little feet and the empty home. Was it expensive? How could it be?

The hospital would give us a discount, and (this was John's) how much milk could a little baby drink? Well then, should we wait? For what? It still takes nine months (heh heh!); and (three cheers for the red, white, and blue on this one!) if you have your children while you're young, you both grow up together, you are like brothers, friends, et cetera. In the final balloting, the motion was unanimously carried.

"But school," I remembered, just before I fell asleep. "Oh, John, I can't have a baby while I'm still there!"

"That's all right," John said promptly. "You're finishing your law course in three months, and it won't begin to show until much later on."

My deeper thoughts came the next day, but even these were not profound enough to really disturb me. "Who wants to grow up with children?" I thought. Certainly, children prefer parents who keep their place. The general competitive spirit is bad enough for youngsters, and while the sister act between mother and daughter may flatter Mama no end, I bet Janie, if she could, would probably trade mother in for a more conventional model.

Social Events

In his interesting topic "Footnotes From Russia," David M. White of Kansas City, former technical sergeant, who spent 15 months in Moscow in 1944-45 on a secret mission with the military intelligence, related impressions of Russia to the members of Sorosis at Monday afternoon's meeting.

Mr. White began his speech by singing the number one song on the Russian Hit Parade in Russian and then translated it in English. He declared that his first impression of Moscow was that it was a very grey city, as were the buildings, people and the atmosphere.

In giving a detailed description of hotels in Russia, he said every room in that country had a round table in it, covered with a green felt cloth that touches the floor. He added that the furniture was very ornate. He declared the first thing a Russian asks for as a gift is a toothbrush and tooth paste. They will not accept tooth powder, the speaker related.

Some Experiences

After 13 weeks of residing at a hotel, Mr. White said he moved to an embassy. There, they had a minimum of ten servants for thirteen men. He said the cook ruled the household, and all the servants were related to the cook. He told the members of the time he purchased a vacuum cleaner, which fascinated the maids, who used it constantly until they broke it by using the machine to sweep a sidewalk. He said the machinery was never fixed after it broke. He related the experience of an old woman who did the washing for a group of 15 persons, in a bath tub, and after a washing machine was procured for her, she still preferred the old style method. He said there were no public laundries or dry cleaners and even wool overcoats were washed.

In touching on the subject of churches, the speaker said Russia opened few during the war as a propaganda measure. He mentioned that St. Basil's, one of the most famous Russian churches was used as a warehouse because it was in such a terrible state of repair.

Mr. White told of the time he attended a midnight Easter service, at which time the priest first wore a white robe, then a silver one, then a gold robe and finally changed into a jeweled robe. He related the younger people attempted to grab parts of the robes for souvenirs.

Older People Religious

He said some of the older people are still religious, but the youth went to church merely to watch the show and also brought their lunches, vodka, cigarettes, etc.

He related a date he had with a Russian girl. He said she was immediately questioned by the police who knew every detail of their conversation. He said the girl was given the choice of three things, to continue to date, but give information to police; continue to date him and not report and be sent to a slave labor camp after he departed from the country; quit dating entirely. He said she picked the first choice.

He told the audience of women about a typical wardrobe of a Russian girl: Two sets of underwear, two dresses, one cotton and the other rayon, a skirt of synthetic fiber, several cotton blouses, a pair of shoes, usually old and worn out.

Low Living Conditions

The average person's living conditions were very low, Mr. White said. He said all fuel was delivered at one time and stacked inside houses. There is not enough fuel usually to heat the homes over one hour a day, he declared. The soap ration is one bar, hotel size, for a person each month. He said houses, furniture and all property belong to the state, but could be rented on black market terms. Mr. White said the education system is marvelous. They start to school at the age of five years and the children are treated to three meals a day, usually the best food obtainable and are given pasteurized milk and fresh fruit, which the older people are not allowed. He touched on the required subjects of a Russian school. Russian history and party indoctrination; Atheism; Foreign language, which was primarily German before the war, now it is English. He said they use aptitude tests extensively to decide what they should study.

No American News

In concluding his speech, he declared that almost no American news was allowed and foreign newspapers and magazines were forbidden. He gave his opinion on the war situation and added that he thought there was not much possibility of a war, since the Russians fear the United States. Mrs. C. F. Scott, civics chairman, introduced the speaker, who is now working as an interior decorator in Kansas City. Before going to Moscow, he was at the Roosevelt-Churchill conference in Quebec. After he left Russia, he served on a brief mission to Germany, assembling data on war criminals.

A luncheon was held at 1:00 o'clock, preceding the meeting. Mrs. Thomas W. Croxton, art and drama chairman, announced next week's program with Miss Ann Hayes of Kansas City as the guest speaker, who will take for her topic, "Today's Woman."

A luncheon and card party was the program for the January meeting of the Welcome Wagon Newcomer's Club. Wednesday afternoon at 1:00 o'clock, January 11.

Twenty-three members were served a luncheon in the Palm Room of the Bothwell hotel.

Following a short business session, presided over by the president, Mrs. Jack McCloskey, the members played cards on the mezzanine floor.

Some Aliens As Risk To U. S. Security

Could Be Deported
Even Though They Are Naturalized

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17—(AP)—The supreme court, splitting 4 to 3, ruled Monday that the attorney general may:

(A) Deport aliens convicted of certain crimes even though they were naturalized citizens when convicted.

(B) Exclude from this country an American soldier's war bride if he regards her as a security risk.

The divided court, acting in three separate cases, held that the attorney general acted within his rights when he:

1. Ordered the deportation of Richard Eichenlaub, 45, former New York restaurant owner and Otto A. Willumeit, 45, a one time leader in the German-American bund. Both are German born, former naturalized citizens.

2. Denied admission to Mrs. Ellen Knauff, 33, German-born war bride of U. S. veteran merely by ruling that "she would be a hazard to internal security." She is the wife of Kurt W. Knauff, now a civilian employee of the Army at Frankfurt, Germany.

In all three cases, the court majority included Chief Justice Vinson and Justices Reed, Burton, and Minton. Justices Black, Frankfurter and Jackson dissented in all three. Justices Douglas and Clark took no part.

Frankfurter said in a separate dissent that the majority had violated the spirit of the war brides act by straining to preserve its letter.

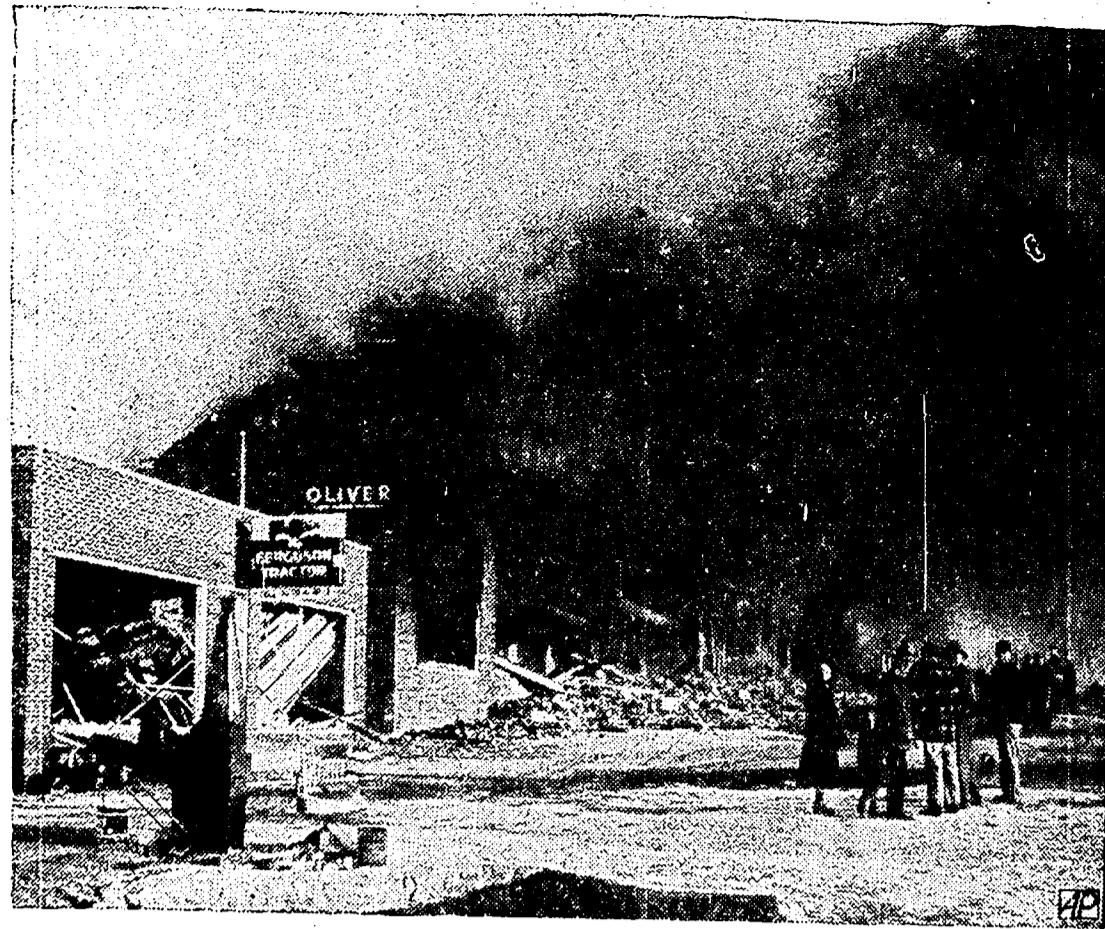

In other cases in which it acted today the court:

1. Refused to order a new espionage trial for Judith Coplon, former government girl who was convicted here and sentenced to serve 40 months to 10 years. Miss Coplon had asked the court to order a new trial on grounds that evidence improperly obtained by wire tapping was used at her trial. She and Valentin A. Gubitchev, a Russian, also face trial in New York on espionage conspiracy charges.

2. Announced it will hear Colonial Air Lines' attack on the validity of the U. S. Canadian agreement which gave to a Canadian government-owned line rights to fly a Montreal to New York route which Colonial had to itself for 20 years. Arguments are expected to be held February 17.

3. Postponed from February 6

until 13 the hearing of arguments in the governments suit to gain control over oil rich submerged lands off the Texas and Louisiana coasts. No reason was given.

4. Declined to review the constitutionality of a Florida law which restricts picketing to the immediate vicinity of a plant involved in a labor dispute. The action leaves in effect a state supreme court decision which upheld the law. It was attacked by the AFL teamsters union as a violation of free speech.

Janitor Accused Of Molesting A Child

FULTON, Mo., Jan. 17—(AP)—Andrew Jones, 46, a janitor, was placed under $3,500 bond in magistrate court here late Monday on a charge of molesting an 8-year-old girl. His preliminary hearing was set for Jan. 23.

Jones is married and has several children. It is the second case of its kind here in a month. Guy T. Pickering, Jr., 19, is free under $3,500 bond pending arraignment in circuit court on a charge of molesting another 8-year-old girl Dec. 15.

By Irving Desfor
AP Newsfeatures

WITH HOLY YEAR activities in world focus, here is a Rome report on Vatican photography. I am indebted to my brother, Max Desfor, Associated Press photographer now stationed in Rome for the interesting story behind the Vatican photos by Felici.

Those photos have been made by the Felici family for three generations. Nearly every photo of the Popes and other high ranking dignitaries of the Vatican in that time has been taken by one of the members of the family.

It started with Giuseppe Felici, a native of Cagli in northern Italy, when he opened a small shop in Rome in 1863. He made his own emulsion solution, placed it on metal plates and developed the prints by sunlight. His artist friends were enthusiastic about the new art form and he began to experiment and improve his technique.

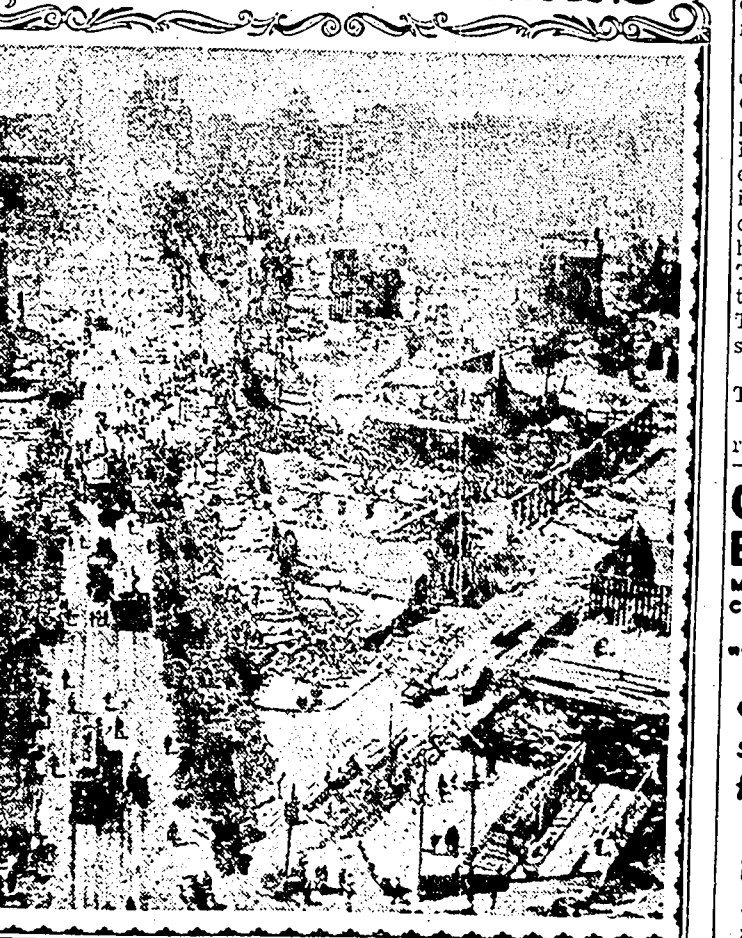

As photography grew, so did grandfather Felici's sons Alberto and Arturo, and with their help, he moved into a large studio on Via del Babuino in 1894. Today, modernized, it is the mecca for sightseers who come to view the latest photos of His Holiness Pope Pius XII on display in the window.

THE FELICIS made their first appearance in the Vatican in 1906. The occasion was a Vatican Exhibit for the episcopal jubilee of Pope Leone XIII and to them fell the honor of photographing the pope. Two years later Pius X gave Giuseppe the diploma of pontifical photographer and during his pontificate they made photographic documentation of all functions, ceremonies and events. Pope Benedetto XV confirmed the pontifical appointment, and so did Pius XI.

In 1923, under the pontificate of Pius XI, Giuseppe died, but a Felici was there to cover the Conciliation between the Italian State and the Church in 1929. Soon Alberto was able to bring his two sons, Luigi and Rudolfo into the business and today it is they who continue to keep their studio abreast of the latest photographic developments and maintain it on a standard worthy of the Holy See.

While father Alberto has retired, Rudolfo runs the studio and Luigi does the outside shooting. He uses a 4x5 Speed Graphic with film packs, cut film and color film. Recently he did a color series

HALF-CENTURY HIGHLIGHTS

CITY IN RUINS was the bustling metropolis of San Francisco (population 350,000) following the great earthquake that struck on April 18, 1906, and the disastrous fire that followed. Because the city's water system was destroyed, firemen were helpless to halt the blaze that reduced four square miles of the city to ashes. Some 500 persons were killed in the disaster, and tens of thousands were left homeless. Property damage was estimated at $500,000,000. The Army and the American Red Cross did heroic relief work. This view of the stricken city, taken from the tower of the ferry building, looks directly up famed Market Street. Before the ruins were cool, crews of workmen were on the street, laying temporary car tracks to begin the mammoth task of rebuilding.

Tax Message Late In Week

Chairman George Calls For Three Billions Slash

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17—(P)—A top Democrat called Monday for a $3,000,000,000 slash in President Truman's budget, and Republicans launched a drive for a "quickie" bill to cut excise taxes by over $600,000,000 a year.

Simultaneously, House GOP leader Martin charged that a "state of confusion" among the President's tax advisers had delayed transmittal of administration tax-cutting plans to Congress.

The proposal for a reduction in Mr. Truman's $42,439,000,000 budget came from Chairman George (D-Ga.) of the Senate finance committee. He called for government economy to erase over one-half of the anticipated $5,000,000,000 deficit next year.

Charles G. Ross, the President's press secretary, said this morning the tax message probably would be sent to Capitol Hill late this week. Previously it had been indicated the message might be ready early in the week.

Wants Excise Taxes Cut
Rep. Martin told newsmen: "I'm sorry there is a state of confusion in the administration. It is delaying business, because the people are holding off buying until the excise taxes are reduced. 'I want a 'quickie' bill to cut the excises right now. Then we can take up other tax problems later."

Mr. Truman has indicated he favors a reduction in excise levies—which cover such things as furs, luggage, jewelry, light bulbs, transportation and communications—and a "moderate" increase in revenues by raising other taxes.

His program has been greeted in Congress with bi-partisan cries for less spending and lower taxes. Seasoned onlookers doubt, however, that Congress actually will slash the budget deeply. There have been cries for economy in previous years, with no great result.

Martin speculated that the delay of the tax message is caused by a disagreement on "how a reduction in excises can be used as an excuse to raise other taxes."

Democrats had little to say about taxes. Those who will handle the legislation when it gets to Congress, including House ways and means chairman Doughton (D-NC), said they have been given "no word at all on what might be in the message."

Boyle's Column

By Hal Boyle
NEW YORK, Jan. 17 — (AP) — Gen. "Hap" Arnold, dead at 63, once almost quit the U. S. army because they wouldn't let him ride a horse.

This is one of many odd quirks in the career of the genial airman who never fired a gun in anger himself but who commanded the mightiest armada in history — the globe-ranging U. S. army air force in the second world war.

The only wound he suffered in two world wars — he saw combat action in neither—came when he was struck by some shotgun pellets during a pheasant hunt.

Yet the American air force of today stands as a monument to his pioneer courage aloft and his cheerful but diplomatic toughness in winning a top place for air power in Washington's behind-the-scenes military struggles.

Two Examples

Two examples of his pioneering:

1. As a young flier Arnold neatly zoomed down and plopped a bag of mail in the front yard of a postoffice to prove the army could deliver airmail.

2. In 1945 he commanded the air force that opened a new era of war and peace by dropping two atom bombs on Japan. It was a force that had grown to 2,200,000 men and 70,000 planes.

The story of "Hap's" adult life parallels the growth of the airplane as a chief instrument of military decision.

But when he was graduated from West Point the big lieutenant — he stood six feet, weighed 185 pounds — was so crazy about horses he threatened to quit the army if he was assigned to the infantry instead of the cavalry. Naturally, the army assigned him to — the infantry.

Swallowed His Pride

Hap swallowed his pride and stayed in service. Four years later, in 1911, he was the fourth man in the army chosen to study flying at Dayton, O., under the Wright brothers. And two months after he took his first lesson he was a flight instructor.

It is interesting to conjecture what would have happened to Arnold — and to American airpower — if he had won his first heart's desire assignment to the cavalry.

For throughout his career Hap was aligned with "Billy" Mitchell and the other army rebels of the years between the wars who sought a more important role for airpower. His victory came when the American airforce was permitted to practice daylight precision bombing against Germany, which he had advocated as against Germany, which he had advocated as against area bombing by night.

Vindication After War

And his vindication came after the war when prisoner Herman Goering, asked by the U. S. strategic bombing survey whether area or precision bombing had been more effective, replied:

"The precision bombing, because it was decisive. Destroyed cities could be evacuated, but destroyed industries were difficult to replace."

Arnold, despite his catchy grin and easy-going air, was sometimes in hot water with his superiors. He wrote in his memoirs, "Global Mission," that President Roosevelt threatened to exile him to Guam in 1939 when Hap was in a fuss with then Secretary of the treasury Morgenthau.

In 1943 he became the first American airman to win four-star general's rank, and later was promoted to five stars. When he retired, he said he was going to sit under an oak tree and look at white faced cattle, and added jestingly:

"If (an airplane) dares to fly low over my ranch house, I'll grab a rifle or something and shoot it down!"

Planes Collided

Shortly after that two training planes collided over his home, and one — the pilot escaped by parachute — crashed in his pasture and blew up.

After retirement Arnold criticized the United Nations as ineffective because it has no power to enforce decisions. He expressed belief that there would be no immediate war, but said the only thing that would stop Russian expansion was the threat of retaliation — from an airforce mightier than her own.

At the Potsdam conference Hap Arnold wrote in his memoirs, a number of chief British and American commanders thought there would be another war in 20 years.

But this was his thought: "There must not be any more wars. We must not just arm for defense, but we must be strong enough to make sure there are no more wars. "We should have sent a big stick into the Munich conference instead of an umbrella. The same applies to the future."

Mackenzie's Column

By Dewitt Mackenzie
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Secretary of State Acheson's blunt statement before the National Press club in Washington regarding Russian territorial expansion in the Asiatic theatre presents a grim picture to opponents of Communism, but it has the virtue of helping clarify a muddy situation.

Acheson accuses Russia of dismembering northern China and being in process of absorbing it into the Soviet Union. He says the detachment of provinces is complete in Outer Mongolia and is almost complete in Manchuria. Inner Mongolia and Sinkiang province apparently are being processed.

Well, this column certainly can not argue against that. I've called attention to this trend persistently, especially to the absorption of the rich and strategic state of Manchuria. Possession of this country gives Russia one of the most dominant positions in the Far East.

An Important Fact

Indeed, Secretary Acheson declares that Russia's designs on Manchuria are "a single most important fact" in the Far Eastern picture.

And what is the significance of these Soviet tactics? The answer to that also is clear. It means the Russian offensive in the Orient is more than a political drive. It is aggression aimed at the expansion of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics.

"What's new or strange about that?" Not a thing. It is precisely what has been going on in Eastern Europe.

Moscow never has concealed her light under a bushel. The objectives of the world revolution for the spread of Communism have been made perfectly plain. The goal is to create a Communist world state — one world — one Red world.

Taking Chinese Territory

So we see Russia in process of absorbing Chinese territory. The areas thus far most concerned (Manchuria, Outer Mongolia, Inner Mongolia and Sinkiang) form a huge, solid bloc whose northern frontier contacts Russian territory all the way.

Moscow is working methodically so that her expansion to the southward into China moves as a compact mass containing no non-Communist areas. The steam roller thus has its northern side completely protected. It is a mighty smart job of strategy.

Manchuria of course is the most important single item in this picture. Here we have a big country of 404,428 square miles, with a population of more than 43,000,000. Its soil is among the world's richest. It has great mineral wealth and vast industrial possibilities. Strategically it is a base of immense strength. Here it should be noted that it was virtually a part of Russia in the days of the czars before the Russo-Japanese war.

Wishful Thinking

There is one interesting — though not highly important — Soviet absorption which seems to have been almost completely lost sight of. That is the case of Tannu Tuva, a little known country which lies in the heart of Asia. Tannu Tuva is bounded on the west, north and northeast by Asiatic territories of Russia, and on the south and southeast by Outer Mongolia. It was annexed by Soviet Russia in 1945. It's about the size of Nevada and its main fame lies in the fact that it was conquered by Genghis Khan in 1207.

Secretary Acheson holds that Russia must someday account to the "righteous anger of the Chinese people" for trying to detach the Manchurian provinces. He warns that America shouldn't embark on "foolish adventures" which will obscure this fact.

That thesis fits in with the claims of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, who maintains that the Chinese people will in due course rise up against the Communists. He pins his hopes to hanging on until that reaction develops.

Is that wishful thinking? Perhaps, but much strategy is based on wishful thinking. The fellow who wins is the one who does the best wishful thinking and follows it up.

Community News from Tipton

Mrs. E. N. Pizer

Monday, the annual meeting of the Missouri Farmers Association of Tipton was held at the Methodist church. A dinner was served to 65 persons at the noon hour by the church ladies.

During the business part of the meeting the following directors were elected: Herman Kutenkuler and P. W. Koehner, one-year terms; Merlyn Hays and Eddie Kasper, two-year terms; L. A. Hartman and Herman Lutz, three-year-terms, and Henry Fischer, four-year term.

In organizing, Herman Kutenkuler was elected president; L. A. Hartman, vice-president, and Merlyn Hays, secretary.

The two retiring officials were Carl Knipp and Albert Knipp. Carl had been on the board for 21 years and the past 10 years of that time he had been president. Albert had been a director two years serving that length of time as secretary.

It was left up to the board as to whether a dividend would be paid or applied to a building fund.

A son, named Tommy Ray, and weighing 5 1/2 pounds, was born to Dr. and Mrs. Harry B. Neis of Harrisonville, at the Memorial hospital there, January 4. There is another son in the family, H. B. Jr., who was two years old on last Christmas day.

Mrs. Neis is the former Miss

June Miller, daughter of Mrs. Arbel Miller.

The first scheduled meeting of "Teen-Town," which is being organized under sponsorship of St. Andrew's Parent-Teacher Association will be held at Kueper Center, next Wednesday night, January 18 from 7:30 to 10 o'clock. All children of high school age and under are invited. "Teen-Town" is to be managed by the children who will elect the officers from the group.

Major Rowles had 18 hogs on Monday's Sedalia market, the top bringing $15.75 cwt., and the heavies, $13.50 cwt. The porkers averaged 245 pounds.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Gabert and Miss Elizabeth Gilbert spent the day in Kansas City, Tuesday. They visited with Miss Gilbert's sister, Mrs. W. B. Elliott who is a patient in Research hospital, in that city. Mrs. Elliott entered the hospital last November 16 with a broken hip from which she is doing satisfactorily, as well as from a recent case of the flu.

Mrs. Herman Dahl, Tipton postmaster, is a patient at St. Joseph's hospital in Boonville where she underwent an appendix operation, Monday morning. Mrs. Dahl, who is nicely recovering, was stricken with the attack at the family home here Sunday evening.

Mrs. Tom D. Briscoe returned to the family home here Saturday from St. Luke's hospital in Kansas City where she had been a patient four weeks. Mrs. Briscoe is recovering very nicely.

Ray White brought his father, Alva White, home from Kansas City Sunday. Alva had been receiving treatment at St. Luke's hospital in Kansas City.

Roy Bookout, of Kansas City, spent a week-end visit here with Mrs. Bookout.

Mrs. Will J. Conn is home from several days stay at the Bothwell hospital.

HORSE and MULE SALE FRIDAY, JANUARY 20, 1950

Starting at 1 P. M.

At our January 6 sale we had a number of buyers, 100 head of Mules and 30 head of Horses. But the Mule market was no more than steady with our last year's sales. We had thought after New Year's we would have a better market.

The Horse market is higher.

We think if you have Mules to sell, they will bring as much now as they will any time this season.

Come—try our market—we believe we can satisfy you.

S-C Tigers to Be Honored At a Banquet

Affair Will be At Bothwell Hotel This Evening

Tom Yount, president of the Sedalia Civic Council, said everything was all set for the big football banquet, which is sponsored by the council, and will be held in the Ambassador Room of the Bothwell hotel, this evening at 6:30 o'clock. A crowd of 150 persons are expected to attend this event.

The affair is being held in honor of the Smith-Cotton Tigers, conquerors of the CEMO football conference this past season. Forty-seven gold football watch charms will be presented to the football squad and coaches, by the presidents of the five civic clubs, which compose the council.

Principal Speakers

Among the principal speakers for the evening will be Don Faurot, whose athletic career as a player, head coach, and finally athletic director has been linked with the University of Missouri for the past quarter century. He will also bring with him movies of recent games the Missouri Tigers have played. Also on the speaking platform will be Ralph "Stub" Dow, head coach at Smith-Cotton high school, who has piloted the Tiger squad through more than one conference championship. He will introduce the football boys. Another speaker will be Harry Ice, executive secretary of the Quarterback club. Many QB members are slated to attend the affair.

Toast Master

Charles Van Dyne, who at one time was a star on the gridiron, will be the master of ceremonies. Group singing will be led by K. A. Buchholtz, accompanied by Mrs. Nellie Monagan.

The clubs which compose the Sedalia Civic Council and presidents are as follows: Business and Professional Women's club, Mrs. A. R. Rush; Kiwanis, Herbert Schrankler; Lions, T. W. Haller; Optimist, Frank Mehl, and Rotary, Oscar DeWolf.

Sports Roundup

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.
NEW YORK, Jan. 17—(P)—Oilman Glenn McCarthy says he would like to buy the Cleveland Browns and move them to Houston, Tex., in the new pro football setup. . . . And it's our guess that he'll stand a good chance. . . . Speaking of Texas, NCAA executives were setting up a committee at last week's meetings when someone pointed out: "We need a small college representative from Texas." "That's impossible," replied another. "No college in Texas will admit it's small."

No 'arm Done

Arizona's "Pop" McKale, who told that one about the Mexican batter the other day, has another about a Mexican kid who pitched for his ball team. . . . The lad was strong, wild and not too smart and Mac kept trying to convince him he should learn control. . . . The only answer was a smile and "Si, si." Finally a situation arose that called for an intentional pass and McKale gave the "put him on" sign. The pitcher cut loose and hit the batsman on the back with the first pitch. . . . Back at the bench, the coach asked: "Did you hit him intentionally?" "Did you hit him intentionally?" "The pitcher smiled. "Si, Mr. Mac. I save my arm three pitches."

One Minute Sports Page

Amateur golf champion Charlie Coe played golf a few days ago for the first time in three months after an appendix operation. He reported he has gained weight, feels stronger and believes he will be able to swing better than last year. That's bad news for the guys who stood around at Oak Hill admiring Coe's swing. . . . Only southern loss reported at the NCAA convention was when Jim Larue, assistant grid coach at Maryland, lost his Sugar Bowl watch. He's hoping the guy who picked it up wasn't an unemployed coach because he'd like to get it back.

End of The Line

The Blackhawks' Bill Tobin is threatening to switch his U. S. Hockey league farm from Kansas City to Denver. Reason, trouble getting ice at the K. C. auditorium. . . . A record total of 1,949 pairs of brothers entered the Peoria Star Brothers Bowling tournament which just ended.

Hogan And Snead In Golf Playoff

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 17—(P)—"Unusual weather" permitting, bantam Ben Hogan and Slammin' Sam Snead will decide tomorrow who is the winner of the 24th Los Angeles Open Gold tournament. They finished the regulation 72 holes last Tuesday with identical scores of 280. Their scheduled 18-hole playoff was rained out the following day.

And now—there is a strong possibility of a repeated performance by the weather. The forecasts for tomorrow is occasional rain.

Harvesters Win From Houstonia

Game Was Played On Houstonia's Home Court

The Sedalia Harvesters defeated the Houstonia Merchants Monday night by the score of 63 to 31.

It was a hotly contested game until the third quarter when the Harvesters built up a substantial lead which they held throughout the remainder of the game.

This was the second defeat handed to Houstonia by the Harvesters this season. The others being by one point margin.

The Harvesters hit 18 free throws while the Houstonia group connected with only nine. The Sedalians played good floor game and drew only nine fouls to 26 for Houstonia.

High point men for the Sedalia team were, Whitfield with 18 points and Mais with 16. High pointers for Houstonia were Coles with 20 and Schuler with 10.

Other scorers for the Harvesters were Parker, 14; Berry, 5; Burford, 4; Roy, 4; Dowdy, 2. For Houstonia, Messer, 7; Dickerson, 3; Howard, 3; Rissler, 2; Pummill, 2; Smith, 2; Shields, 2.

Referees for the contest were Seiver and Blackburn.

Thursday night the Harvesters will journey to Knob Noster to meet a local team there.

Willie Pep is Still Champ of Featherweight

His Opponent Was Knocked Out in The Fifth Round

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 17—(P)—Little Willie Pep, matchless master of the featherweight boxers, put his title on the line last night and took it back when he was good and ready—at one minute and five seconds of the fifth round.

Up to that point Pep had been dancing, almost playing with the little St. Louis Negro, Charlie Riley, who had pleaded for several years for a crack at the title. The first four rounds were all Pep's, while Riley stayed on the side of caution.

Doomed Round

For four rounds they waltzed around, with now and then a flurry of right and left jabs—mostly from Pep, for the chunky Riley couldn't find a place for his good right. Then, in the fifth, Pep found a place for his knockout punch and he let it go.

Pep had feinted with a left. Like a streak of lightning the right came barreling through, an uppercut to the jaw, and Riley hung for a moment in space, his knees buckling. Pep held back the left he had ready for a follow-through. Riley spun 45 degrees and fell flat on his face, out cold. He lay there still.

Dazed a Few Minutes

They turned him over and had to pull the mouthpiece out of force. Several minutes later he was still dazed, and as he was helped over to Pep's corner and offered congratulations from glistening, half-closed eyes, again he dropped to one knee.

It was Pep's 45th knockout in a total of 145 bouts.

Pep, who hails from Hartford, Conn., weighed 123 1/2. Riley was 125 1/2.

St. Louis through the years has not been a city of big boxing crowds, so last night's gross gate of $56,905 set a record. A total of 11,115 paid to get in. Half of the net proceeds, after taxes, went to Pep, and 10 per cent was allotted to Riley.

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 17—(P)—John C. Grover, 66, widely known in the Missouri Valley area as a sports official, died of a heart ailment at his home yesterday.

A Lawyer, Grover nursed his ailing heart after suffering an attack while watching a football game in 1936. He encouraged hundreds of persons with heart trouble to follow exact regimes prescribed by doctors.

He officiated football games 25 years, before quitting that activity in 1930. He was president of the Missouri Valley A. A. U. from 1931 to 1937.

He was graduated in 1908 from Washington University in St. Louis where he set track records in sprint events.

Court Action At S-C Tonight

The Tipton quintet comes to Sedalia tonight to avenge a 30-50 licking they suffered at the hands of the Smith-Cotton Tigers during their first game of the season.

The non-conference basketball meet will be staged on the Smith-Cotton high school court about 8:00 o'clock. Preceding this encounter, will be a preliminary game to get underway at 7:00 o'clock between the "B" squads of both high schools.

The sparkplug of the visiting team is Jackie Needy, guard. In the previous encounter between the two teams, he chalked up 19 of Tipton's 30 points. Coach James Ball said he would put Dale Ruffin on Needy to see if he could stop the visitor's scoring spree.

The starting line-up for the Tigers tonight are: Bill Brown and Dale Ruffin, forwards; Bill Holst, center; Ralph Walwer and either Marvin Lankenou or Bill McCrary, guards.

Ohio State Leads Big 10 Conference

Buckeyes Scored An Easy Victory Over Michigan

NEW YORK, Jan. 17—(P)—Ohio State stands today as the basketball team to beat in the Big 10 conference.

The Buckeyes (9-2) are at the top of the league standings following an easy 74-58 victory over strong Michigan (8-5) last night. Forward Dick Schnitter scored 28 points in leading Ohio State to its third Big 10 success.

Bradley rolled to its 15th victory in 17 games in defeating Detroit, 71-50, in a Missouri Valley game. Charlie Grover scored 20 points for the winners, who rank fourth in this week's Associated Press poll.

A Stubborn Battle

Kentucky came back strong from its Saturday night defeat by Tennessee. The Wildcats whipped Georgia Tech, 61-47, after a stubborn battle. The Engineers held an early lead in the second half. Kentucky (10-2) ranks fifth nationally.

Wisconsin (10-3) twice overcame 10-point deficits to defeat Minnesota, 57-54, at Madison. The Gophers (9-3) led, 54-53, in the final minute before Wisconsin's Danny Markham dropped in a goal and two free throws. Dick Means of Minnesota led the scorers with 19 points.

The game is unusual in that only 11 men played. Wisconsin sent in only one sub while Minnesota's starting five stayed in the whole 40 minutes.

Cincinnati Routed 84-59

Western Kentucky (10-4) avenged an earlier one-point defeat with a 25-point rout of Cincinnati, 84-59. It was Cincinnati's second loss against seven victories.

Louisville (15-2) romped over Georgetown (Ky.), 94-63. Purdue upset Iowa (9-3) to cut its consecutive losing streak at six. The score: 64-55.

Oklahoma A & M. not a power this year, trounced Drake, 56-27. Illinois (9-4) walloped Northwestern (8-4), 76-50. Indiana (11-2) stepped outside the Big 10 to belt Butler, 57-49.

A Field Goal Accounted For Springfield Victory

KIRKSVILLE, Mo., Jan. 17—(P)—Jack Lindsay's field goal in the last few seconds gave Springfield State a 39-37 decision over Kirksville State in an M.I.A.A. basketball game last night.

The score was tied five times, the last time at 37-37 with 45 seconds left. Springfield led at the half 28-20.

Earl Perry made 25 of Kirksville's 37 points.

A Warsaw Date For Sacred Heart Teams

The Sacred Heart basketball and volleyball teams will make a trip to Warsaw, Wednesday evening, January 18 to play Warsaw for the first time this season.

The Warsaw teams are among the top in the conference and the games should be exciting. The volleyball game will be first, after which the B teams and then the A teams will play.

The starting line-up for the A team game will be chosen from the following: Jerry Labas, Joe Paxton, Joe Mehl, Bill Hodges, Jim Bus, Jess Martin and Jim Menefee.

Holy Cross Holds No. 1 Spot on Court

Brooklyn Five Is Rated Second; Long Island Third

By Milo Farneti

NEW YORK, Jan. 17—(P)—A new team—unbeaten Holy Cross—holds the No. 1 spot today as the country's best basketball team in the third weekly Associated Press poll.

The Crusaders from Worcester, Mass., climbed from fifth in displacing St. John's of Brooklyn by a close 1,037 to 992 points.

Holy Cross, winner of 13 games, drew 47 first place votes out of 128 cast by sports writers and sportscasters throughout the country.

The Brooklyn five (11-1) got 35 votes for first place. Right behind in third came Long Island U. (12-1) with 27 ballots for No. 1.

Fourth Place Team

Bradley (15-2) jumped into fourth place from last week's sixth spot. The Braves received 3 votes for first, the same number as Kentucky (10-2). Kentucky dropped from second to fifth because of its upset by Tennessee Saturday.

Indiana (11-2) dropped from last week's fourth spot to No. 8, following its losses to Michigan and Iowa. The Hoosiers got three votes for first.

Another quintet winning first place mention is 13th ranked Kansas State (11-3) with two.

The top to teams (first place points in parentheses), and records including Monday night's games; first place worth 10 points, second place nine points and so on down the lines):

Team Record Points

1. Holy Cross (47) 13-0 1,037

2. St. John's (35) 12-1 992

3. Long Island (27) 12-1 871

4. Bradley (15) 15-2 709

5. Kentucky (10) 10-2 695

6. Duquesne (4) 12-0 610

7. C. C. N. Y. 9-2 373

8. Indiana (11) 11-2 327

9. UCLA (3) 11-4 204

10. LaSalle (1) 9-2 177

Teams with 10 or more points include:

Proud Indian Never Was Like Movies Painted Him

By Saul Pett
AP Newsfeature Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—(AP)—An Indian boy in Oklahoma went to see a movie about Indians.

He came home and asked his father:

"Pop, get mad. Get ferocious. Get bloodthirsty, like in the movies."

His father refused to perform and tried to explain. Several days later the boy was telling his friends that his sister was an Indian.

"But I'm not," he quickly added.

The incident explains one of the purposes of the National Film committee, a new organization devoted to achieving a fairer, more accurate picture of the American Indian in our movies.

The committee was organized by the Association on American Indian Affairs, a national citizens' group, predominantly white, which seeks to advance the participation of Indians in American life.

Should Have Pride Back

"If we are going to rehabilitate the Indians," says Association Executive Director Alexander Lesser, "we've got to give them back their pride."

Thus the committee is declaring war on the traditional Hollywood version of the first American—the treacherous, murdering savage, the childish lackey, the drinker who goes berserk, the simple-minded aborigine whose vocabulary is limited to "ugh."

"We want to achieve a broad, historically true picture of the Indian," says Lesser. "We're not asking that our country be villified and the Indians glorified. If we depict Indian-white wars, let's show both sides."

"Most often, in the Hollywood treatment of the settlement of the west, the white man is painted as a hero, the Indian as a villain. We should also consider that the Indian was defending his home against trespass."

Will Point Out Injustices

Harold Mantell, secretary of the new committee, says it hopes to work with the movie industry as a "review, consultative and research center." It will point out injustices in films, he says, but hopes to avoid conflict by persuading movie companies to submit their products in advance.

Other committee members include Quincy Howe, Oscar Hammerstein II, Evelyn Yellow Robe, A. B. Guthrie, Jr., Dr. Harry Shapiro, W. L. White, Bill Mauldin and Witter Byner.

Hollywood, it would seem, has a lot to learn.

Among recent movies, the committee objects to one scene where an Indian reverts to alleged type, goes berserk, becomes the "crazy Indian" through fire and destruction.

Another scene in another movie showed an Indian throwing a white man into a fire, taking him out and throwing him in again. "That kind of cruelty was far from typical of the American Indian," says Lesser.

Resent Being Called Squaws

Also, Indian women bitterly resent being called "squaws." Lesser says this was "never an Indian term, but a white man's word which has come to indicate derision, a lump of baggage, a thing."

Other films have portrayed an Indian as a slavish lackey meekly serving a white hero but having no dignity or self-respect of his own.

"This," says Lesser, "is a very false picture. The Indian could never be enslaved or subordinated. White men could never successfully turn any large group of Indians into domestic servants. They couldn't lower their pride that much."

The committee feels that much more can be said of the Indian's past than has been said through the movies. Indians were extremely cultured and well-mannered. Somebody once called them "God's first gentlemen."

Developed Politically

Lesser points out that the 18th century Iroquois achieved a high level of political development. In fact, they had worked out a kind of league of nations on a democratic basis.

"By present standards," Lesser adds, "the Pilgrims were primitive. But we don't teach our children to look down on them. But we do in the case of Indians who lived in the same period."

Indians all over the country write in to Lesser objecting to various movies. A woman in Fort Worth, Tex., was hurt by one movie warrior's "offensive, childish vocabulary."

Another woman, in Erie, Pa., wrote:

"We are not drunkards, savages or people of dubious reputation. They (the movies) make the Indian feel he is an outcast and educate white boys to think he is a bogey man."

School Be Held On Recreation

On Tuesday, January 24, a one-day recreation school will be held in Warrensburg for recreation leaders from the 4-H clubs in Jackson, Johnson, Cass, Pettis, Henry and Benton counties. Miss Charline Lindsay, State 4-H club agent from the University of Missouri, will be in charge of this meeting. The school is scheduled to start at 9:30 a. m. and close at 4 p. m.

community will be allowed to attend in their place. It is hoped that every 4-H club in the county will be represented as recreation is a vital part of a well planned 4-H club program and there is no better way to receive valuable training in recreation than attending such recreation school conducted by trained personnel. Every club which plans to have a member or leader in attendance at this meeting should notify the extension office by not later than January 20.
